never been accurately or entislactorily de-termined. Chemical analysis has rescaled sentially in different persons, and in the same person at different ages, it is impossible to determine with any a sense ye vacily what quality is facking where a person becomes prematurely gray, or what prepara-growth and vigor where the hair falls out so as to produce baldness. Hence it is that all artificial preparations has a falled, its rome essentials at least, to meet the requirements of a perfect bair restorative. There are a number of excellent dressings and washings, and searcs of proparations that are either heddferent or positively injurious, and the great mult placity of theso furnishes an argument in support of the fact that there is seemiling lacking in laios all the qualities essential to a perfect hair restoration, both as regards natural color and a fall, fuveriant growth. The basis of Carboline is petroteem, and in that wonderful article, produced in Na-tire's own laboratory, are properties which the chemist's art has not yet been also to combine, and which act live magic upon the scalp, the follicles, and the various ele-
